Who is this little family? Photo probably taken before the turn of the century, suggesting the parents might be people born in the 1870’s. It was taken at Toronto and was in the Pratt/Munro family album, suggesting these people could be of the ‘eastern’ contingent of the Munro clan or possibly Smiths. Can anybody match it with photos they already have that have an identification on them? Or even recognize who these well-dressed people are? Their clothing suggests they were one of the more affluent families in our crowd.
